THREE DAYS TO BE OCCUPIED IN YALE PAGEANT, SPECTACULAR FEATURE OF THE BI-CENTENNIAL

Great Performance Will Take Place in the Yale
Bowl, With Capacity for 60,000 Spectators—Seven
Thousand Actors Will Take Part.

The Yale Pageant, the spectacular feature of the Yale-New Haven Bi-Centennial, will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the removal of Yale College to New Haven. The Pageant is to be given in the Yale Bowl on Saturday afternoon, October 21st. The other events of the Yale-New Haven Bi-Centennial will take place on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 20, 21 and 22.

The Yale Pageant, a dramatic review of the history of Yale as College and University, will be presented by a total of 7,000 participating actors. This multitude of performers is made up of volunteers from the university, the city of New Haven, and from many cities in Connecticut, and other nearby states. Church and religious societies, fraternal orders, the college, the Boy Scouts and Campfire Girls, military companies of New York and Connecticut, patriotic orders, the Equal Franchise League and the Anti-Suffrage League, the police and fire departments, labor organizations and every class and department in the university have contributed to the stupendous total of actors who will step out upon the green surface of the Yale Bowl and live over again the picturesque and stirring episodes in the history of Yale and of the Nation.

The Bowl affords seating capacity for 60,000 spectators to view the production of these 7,000 performers.

The dramatic spectacle, which is in charge of Francis Hartman Markoe, Yale 1896, Pageant Master, will include the following principal scenes:

The prelude, showing the medieval wedding procession of Margaret ap Ikenyn, the founder of the Yale family, is followed by scenes of the founding of the colony of New Haven with purchase of the land by John Davenport and Theophilus Eaton from the Quinnipiac Indians; the founding of the college by the picturesque ceremony of the gift books by Congressional clergymen of the colony; the removal by force of the books and the college from Saybrook to New Haven, and the first commencement in New Haven. Following an allegorical interlude, representing the coming of the arts and sciences to the city, the world to the new college in America, come the stirring scenes at the time of the Revolution, and those characteristic of the college in the early half of the last century. Yale's influence in the life of the nation stands out in such episodes as the martyrdom of Nathan Hale and that of Theodore Winthrop, the first Union officer to fall in the Civil War. These in turn are followed by scenes of modern drill ending with a drill by the Yale Battalion of Field Artillery organized last winter and in service as part of the Federalized Militia during all the past summer. The Pageant closes, showing Yale, after two hundred years of distinguished achievement, surrounded by the colleges her sons have founded, by her contributions to the arts and sciences and by eminent graduates who have helped to shape the history of the nation, looking fearlessly to her future world service, while the whole multitude, both of audience and of performers, join in singing the Yale psalm.

The action of the Pageant will be accompanied by the first public rendering, by a chorus of 500 voices and an orchestra of 60 pieces, of the music which has all been written especially for the Pageant.

The director of music is Professor David Stanley Smith, 1900, of the Yale School of Music. The music has been composed in part by Professor Smith and by the following, who have co-operated with him to make the music of the Pageant no less notable than the dramatic spectacle: Horatio Parker, Dean of the School of Music; Harry B. Jepson, 1893, William E. Haesche, 1897, Mus. B., Seth D. Bingham, Jr., 1904, Walter R. Cowles, 1906, all of the Faculty of the School of Music, and Douglas S. Moore, 1915.

The colors and designs for the costumes were originated by Miss Christine Herter, a graduate of the Yale School of the Fine Arts, who has served as the artist of the Pageant.

Arrangements for all the events of the Yale-New Haven Bi-Centennial, of which the Pageant is a part, have been made by a committee of Yale officers and graduates appointed by the Yale Corporation and by a co-operating municipal committee, by the mayor of the city of New Haven.

Following is the program of events for the three days of the celebration.

Friday afternoon, October 20, in the Yale Bowl, football game: Yale vs. Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Tickets, 50c.

Friday evening, at 8:30 o'clock in Woolsey Hall, masque, "Curpid and Psyche," written by John Jay Chapman, Yale Honorary M. A. 1916, presented for the first time

COMBUSTION CAUSES CIGAR STORE BLAZE

A fire which drew to the scene hundreds of patrons of the Plaza theatre, blocking street traffic, caused a damage of $75 in the cellar of the C. B. Cutter sporting goods store, 44 Fairfield avenue, at 8:17 last night.

The blaze was caused by spontaneous combustion, due to the presence in the cellar of waste and other inflammable refuse which had accumulated.

GIRL RUNS AUTO INTO ANOTHER MACHINE WHEN BOY DARTS INTO ROAD

To avoid striking a boy, who was running in the street, Miss M. H. Melius, of 427 Norman street, drove the automobile which she was operating in Park avenue, into a machine driven by Ralph Putnam, 448 Laurel avenue. The occupants of the automobiles were not injured by the collision, although both vehicles were greatly damaged.

ACCOMMODATIONS NOT ADEQUATE, BRIDGEPORT REJECTED FOR MEETING

The State Women's Suffrage Association in session in this city yesterday turned down Bridgeport as a convention city because of the lack of adequate hotel accommodation for guests. New Haven was selected as the city for the meeting on October 25 and 26. Mrs. Samuel C. Shaw and Mrs. William T. Hines spoke upon the lack of housing in this city.

SUPREME DICTATOR LAUDS VOCATIONAL TRAINING FOR BOYS

Hy Davis, supreme dictator of the loyal order of Moose, was welcomed in this city last night by about 200 women and 700 men. "The hand and the head should be educated together," the guest said in a speech lauding vocational training and telling of the work done by the organization's school at Mooseheart, New York.

In closing his address Mr. Davis said "This nation will never prosper as it should until it cares for its homeless boys and girls." Music and song were plentiful in the evening's program, which was enjoyed immensely by all present.

SEEK AID FOR STRIKERS

Funds for the continuance of the carmen's strike of New York are being solicited in Bridgeport. A committee of strikers reached Bridgeport yesterday in a countrywide campaign that is being waged for financial aid. They will remain here for several days.

WEST IS SOLID FOR PRESIDENT, MALONE'S VIEW

Collector of Port of New York Optimistic Over
Outlook There.

New York, Oct. 5.—Dudley Field Malone, Collector of the Port of New York, returning from a tour of the far West, declared today that Colorado, California, Nevada, Wyoming and Utah, where he has been making a close study of political conditions, will be carried by the President.

"The West is solid for President Wilson," said Mr. Malone. "In California, the Progressives, who are really progressives in principle, are against Hughes and the reactionary leaders running his campaign. Republicans and Progressives in the clubs, banks and business houses are outspoken in support of the President. Labor in California is as everywhere, lined up for Wilson."

"The women voters of California will support the President because of his humanitarian legislation and because he has kept the country at peace. The trip of the Hughes Alliance Women's train to California will be of immense help to the President, because the mothers and daughters of the country will have an opportunity to see who is behind Mr. Hughes and his candidacy. It is the women who represent the great masses of the people who are for the President."

"Ever" man and woman who works for a living in the Western states is outspoken in favor of President Wilson's re-election because of his advocacy of the Eight Hour Law. The business men are grateful to him because he prevented a nation-wide strike, the effect of which would have been recorded on every cash register.

"In Nevada and Utah, Republicans and Progressives concede those states to the President, and in Wyoming, Governor Carey, a former Republican Governor, and probably the most distinguished citizen in that state, has come out for the Democratic candidates for Senate and Congress."

"In Illinois, the three hundred and fifty thousand women who will vote in this Presidential election will carry the state for Wilson by a handsome majority."

"On the train coming East there were six Republicans among eight men gathered in the smoking compartment and every one of them said they are going to vote for Wilson. This is the excellent political reason, the situation throughout the west, where Mr. Hughes' trip was a flat failure. The people of the West explain the falling down of Mr. Hughes by the fact that he had nothing to present to them and presented that poorly."

An excellent political reason, which the President should have been anxious to stop the strike would have been to keep Hughes and Fairbanks on the road as an asset to the Democratic party."

Collector Malone was asked if he cared to comment on Jeremiah O'Leary's criticism of Mayor Mitchell and himself as friends of the President. Mr. Malone replied, "The President buried O'Leary, why wake the dead?"

Bay State Women Enthusiastic For Return of Wilson

Boston, Oct. 5.—Mary E. Woolley, President of Mt. Holyoke College, one of the leading women's educational institutions of the country, in a letter accepting action in the name of the Women's Woodrow Wilson League of Massachusetts, says:

"It will give me pleasure to have my name used in connection with the Women's Woodrow Wilson League. With the highest respect for the candidate of the Republican party, I feel that in this crisis it is unwise to change the administration. I agree with President Eliot that an extraordinary amount of good work has been done during the present administration and that the man chiefly responsible for this consummate service to the American people should be again their chief servant."

Among other prominent Massachusetts women who have joined the league are Miss Mabel Gillespie, the secretary of the minimum wage commission, Mrs. Glendower Evans, one of the foremost social workers in the city, and especially conspicuous for her interest in the Filipino cause; Mrs. Fanny Fern Andrews, the head of the American School Peace League; Miss Julia O'Connor, secretary of the telephone operators' union; Mrs. Geo. W. Nasmith, whose husband is one of the foremost speakers and workers for the peace cause; Miss Anne Withington and Mrs. Henry B. Cabot.

SUFFRAGE SOLUTION FOR SEX MORALITY PROBLEM—MRS. BENNETT

The solution of the delicate problem of sex morality, can never be settled until women obtain suffrage rights, Mrs. M. Toscan Bennett, chairman of the Women's Suffrage Association of Connecticut, stated last night, in the course of a lecture to the members of the Bridgeport Philosophical society. The meeting was held in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Citizens' building.

The remarks of Mrs. Bennett, who addressed about 100 members of the organization on the subject of "Woman's Place in Politics," were warmly received by the audience. At the invitation of the speaker questions were asked by members of the audience, on matters of complex political import, which she answered in a clear, concise and able manner.

HUGHES' WOMEN BOOSTERS WILL HIT OPPOSITION

Feminine Campaigners to Be Confronted With Declaration for Wilson.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—When the Hughes' Women's Alliance Million Dollar Special reaches Illinois it will be confronted by Mrs. John F. Seymour's declaration for President Wilson. Mrs. Seymour, the campaigner, who was dedicated to Theodore Roosevelt and sung at the Progressive Convention of 1912. She will work and vote for the President in Illinois.

Mrs. Seymour has issued a stirring appeal to the women of the country to support the President in which she says in part:

"Mr. Wilson's ideals are nearer, far nearer, the ideals of the Progressives than anything Mr. Hughes and his supporters have been able to put forth. The Progressives offer no remedy for the ills which they assert hang over the country and hold out no promise of constructive legislation. I feel sure that every thinking Progressive woman feels as I do. They all look to President Wilson to carry out the Progressive party's constructive legislation and consequently may be depended upon to cast their votes November 7th for Woodrow Wilson."

Illinois does not offer a very promising field for Hughes women miscreants. The recent Democratic State Convention declared unequivocally in favor of equal suffrage and for the first time in the history of Illinois' political parties a woman, Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch of Evanston, was named by the Democrats as a potential elector. The women of Illinois are not to be deceived by campaign speeches and promises in the face of these concrete examples of Democratic deeds.

G. DROUVE CO. TO BE REPRESENTED AT GREAT INDUSTRIAL CONVENTION

The G. Drouve Co. will be represented at the convention of the American Electric Railway association which will be held at Atlantic City, October 9 to 13, by William V. Dee, secretary and general sales manager.

This year's convention at which an attendance of between 4,000 and 5,000 is expected will be of unusual interest from the fact that the Thursday session will be devoted to historical review of the industry. An effort is being made to assemble for this meeting as many of the pioneers of the industry as can attend. The discussion of the excellent development will be led by Frank J. Sprague, who was responsible for the installation of the first commercially successful trolley line at Richmond in 1888. It was by this operation that the impetus was given to the marvelous expansion of urban and interurban electric lines that followed.

A prominent New York banker will lead the discussion on the financial development, which is expected to be no less interesting. Maj.-Gen. Leonard S. Wood, U. S. A., will deliver an address on Electric Railways and Preparedness, as part of the movement to interest electric railway men in the plans of the committee recently appointed by the association to co-operate with the war department in the matter of defense. Ivy L. Lee, who was responsible for the embarkation of the Pennsylvania railroad in a campaign of publicity, the first large undertaking along these lines by a public service corporation, will speak on publicity and P. J. Kealy, president of the Kansas City Railway Co., who bore a large part in the Kansas City retirement, by which the traction situation in that city was placed upon a permanent and satisfactory basis, will deliver a paper on "Overhead Charges in Valuation."

Meeting of the association's affiliated organizations for electric railway accountants, engineers, claim agents, and transit department and traffic officers will be held during the same week. Altogether about 100 addresses and committee reports will be presented. An exhibit of electric railway apparatus and supplies which will occupy about 60,000 square feet of floor space on Young's pier, where the convention will be held, is one of the features of this big gathering.

Twenty-eight hundred policemen, who at intervals during the summer served in the student camp at Fort Wadsworth, will parade down Fifth avenue on a march of men will be dressed in khaki in heavy marching order, with machine gun detachments and armored cars.
